

LOANLAND, based in Frankfurt am Main, is a credit specialist for real estate private debt and acts as an investment manager for both credit funds and individual mandates. Combining expertise in real estate, financing, and regulatory affairs together with digitalization know-how, LOANLAND offers a fast and reliable access to real estate private debt. To strengthen our highly motivated and professional team in Frankfurt we are currently looking for

Junior Loan Specialist (Analyst) (m/f/o)

Your Tasks

- Preparation of decision proposals on real estate private debt investments (incl. underwriting)
- Support of senior professionals in financing transactions and project organization (origination & execution)
- Preparation and optimization of dynamic financial models for detailed risk and return assessments of potential real estate transactions
- Preparation of marketing materials and investor presentations
- Conduct industry research and market analyses

Your Profile

- Excellent performance in a recently completed study program, ideally with focus on finance, business administration or real estate management
- 1-2 years of sector-relevant professional experience of advantage (i.e. real estate or financing market)
- Very good MS Office skills (esp. MS Excel and MS PowerPoint)
- Distinct presentation expertise and remarkable communication and teamwork skills
- Very good English and German language skills (written and spoken)

Our Offer

- Varied and challenging tasks in a young, dynamic, and growing company
- Steep learning curve through immediate responsibility, active participation, and direct impact within LOANLAND
- Fast-paced, dynamic, and successful environment with direct exposure to experienced real estate and debt financing specialists
- Attractive, performance-based compensation system
- Modern workplace centrally located in Frankfurt am Main (Goethestraße)

Become part of a motivated team!

Please send your complete application documents, stating the next possible starting date, exclusively by e-mail to Ms. Laura Hanstedt via careers@loan-land.com.

We look forward to meeting you!